

What You Can Do

South Africa records everything. What is missing is accountability. These steps are free and can be done from your phone or computer.

READ THE RECORD

Parliament's Police committee hears from SAPS, IPID and the NPA. The Parliamentary Monitoring Group (pmg.org.za) publishes the meeting reports and the Minister of Police's written replies, such as reply NW393 on victim friendly facilities.

ASK YOUR POLICE STATION

Ask whether your station has a dedicated victim friendly room. The Minister of Police said in March 2025 that 99 of 1,170 stations did not.

WRITE TO THE COMMITTEE

Ask the Portfolio Committee on Police to set a date for implementing its own recommendation on births to children under 16. Use the letter on the "Write to the Committee" page.

USE THE LAW

You can ask a public body for records under the Promotion of Access to Information Act. The "Asking a Public Body for Records" page explains how.

KNOW THE DUTIES

Anyone who suspects a sexual offence against a child must report it to the police. The "Reporting a Sexual Offence" page explains what the law and the SAPS instruction require.

SHARE WHAT IS TRUE

Share the sourced facts, not rumours. Every figure on the Accountability and Resources pages links to its source.
